

World Book Day: Thursday 7th March 2024

Today is World Book Day. The children arrived at school dressed as elephants. It has been a fun day sharing stories and choosing our own books to take home to share with our families. The children really enjoyed choosing a book from an amazing selection. During the day the children have taken part in some creative art activities including making their own 'Hungry Caterpillar' themed book mark, drawing and painting to make an elephant themed head band. We shared the story of 'Elmer' the colourful, patchwork elephant and we decorated different coloured patterned patches for creating our own large 'Elmer' elephant for the classroom. We also made a story in a box based on our class story 'The Very Hungry Caterpillar'. The most important thing of all is that the children have learnt that Reading and sharing stories is such a fun and wonderful thing to do.

Wow we had a busy afternoon making our elephant headbands! Thank you very much to the adults that came to help us.

We continued to decorate patches for our class 'Elmer' the elephant. We managed to finish it.
